Dear Mr. Weisberg:

I regret to report that after much discussion around our place of your manuscript and Sauvage's book, and the positive merits of both and relative merits of each, the editorial decision has been not to take on either book.

I personally think you have quite a book here, and I have a hunch that somebody will be publishing it and that it'll make quite a stir.

Sincerely,

Edwin Seaver

P.S. I'm returning your manuscript under separate cover.
